Guard Officers Quitting.
Many national guard officers are resigning their commissions and returning to civil life. This is especially noticeable among the medical corps officers, many of whom gave up fine practices in their home cities to come to the border with the expectation of seeing active service.

Army orders give a number of these resignations, including the guard officers stationed along the Mexican border. There have been fewer of these resignations in the camps in and near El Paso than at any other point on the border.

The Big Eats

New Post Toasties have such a delicious flavor—the true essence of choice Indian corn—that the kiddies wish the supply was many times as large. And grown folks welcome these new corn flakes as a delightful improvement in cereal foods.

New Post Toasties

are made by a new patented process from Indian Corn, cooked, rolled and toasted in rotary ovens to delicious golden brown flakes. Note the tiny bubbles on these flakes—their distinguishing characteristic. Then eat a handful dry and notice how good they are this way, though Toasties are even more delicious when served with milk or cream.

New Post Toasties are not "chaffy" in the package nor do they "mush down" in cream like ordinary corn flakes. They're put up in flavor-preserving, moisture-proof packages and are truly different and better. Order a trial package from your grocer.
